The composite includes designated retail separately managed, fully discretionary, fee-paying accounts under management with a similar investment mandate. Monthly composite returns are calculated using weights equal to beginning values adjusted for time-weighted cash flows. Quarterly and yearly returns are derived from linking monthly returns. Additional information is available upon request.

Composite account returns will be reduced by any fees and expenses incurred in the management of the account. Gross composite returns are calculated by deducting commissions and transaction costs charged to accounts in a composite. Net composite returns also reflect the deduction of management fees, which may include performance-based fees, and are calculated by deducting actual fees charged to the accounts in a composite. Fees are applied to gross returns at month end. Actual fees may vary depending on the applicable fee schedule and account size. Additional information regarding policies for valuing accounts, calculating performance, and preparing compliant reports is available upon request. Investment advisory fees are listed herein and are fully described in Boston Partners' Form ADV, Part 2.

Annual fee schedule

Investment advisory fees, which are more fully described in Boston Partners' Form ADV, Part 2, are: 100 basis points on total assets under management; plus 20% profit participation.

The strategy's benchmark is the S&P 500 Index, which tracks the performance of the 500 largest companies traded in the United States. The benchmark is provided to show how the composite's returns compare to a broad-based index of securities; index performance does not reflect costs, fees, or other expenses. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.

Investment risks

Investing involves risk, including the potential loss of principal. International investing is subject to fluctuations in currency exchange rates; political, social, or economic instability; and differences in taxation, auditing, and other financial practices. Investing in emerging-market securities may increase these risks. Foreign investors may have taxes withheld. Smalland mid-cap companies tend to be more volatile and may fluctuate in value more than the broader stock market. Illiquid securities may be difficult to value or to sell. Investments in undervalued or out of favor stocks may not appreciate and could decline further. Short sales involve the potential for significant losses and can disproportionately affect the value of the portfolio. Higher rates of portfolio turnover may result in higher costs and capital gains. Options and derivatives may be more sensitive to changes in market conditions. The strategy may participate in Initial Public Offerings (IPOs), depending on availability and prevailing market conditions. IPOs may have a significant positive effect on performance, and such results should not be expected for future performance periods.

Definitions

Alpha measures the excess risk-adjusted return of a portfolio relative to a benchmark index. Beta is a measure of a portfolio's market risk relative to its benchmark. In general, a beta higher than 1.00 indicates a more volatile portfolio and beta lower than 1.00 indicates a less volatile portfolio in relation to its benchmark. Downside capture measures a portfolio's performance in down markets relative to the index. A value below 100 indicates that a fund has outperformed in down markets. Free cash flow (FCF) yield is calculated by dividing a company's free cash flow by its market capitalization. In general, higher FCF yields indicate greater financial health. FCF Yield is reported as median excluding financials of the underlying securities. OROA (operating return on operating assets) measures how much operating income a company generates per dollar invested in assets that are used specifically to facilitate its day-to-day operations. The figures shown are for the trailing five years. Price/earnings (P/E) ratio measures a company's current share price compared to its per-share earnings. Forward P/E uses a company's forecasted earnings for the next year. Sharpe ratio measures a portfolio's total return per unit of risk. The higher the ratio, the better the portfolio's historical riskadjusted performance. Standard deviation is commonly used to gauge a portfolio's level of risk, and measures the average amount by which a set of data varies from its mean value. Upside capture measure a portfolio's performance in up markets relative to an index. A value over 100 indicates that a fund has outperformed the benchmark during periods of positive returns for the benchmark.
